Information about Your Request to Restrict Protected Health Information (PHI)

What does the right to restrict PHI mean?

You or your personal representative have the right to request a restriction of the uses and disclosures of your protected health information (PHI). Member or personal representative is only allowed to request a restriction of the use and disclosure pertaining to treatment, payment, or health care operations in accordance with the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act. Any other uses or disclosures that are required by law cannot be altered by the health plan. Providence Medicare Advantage Plans understands the importance of keeping your health information confidential. We use and share only information that is necessary to provide services to our members and as permitted and required by law.

What do I need to understand to use this right?

- Providence Medicare Advantage Plans will consider all requests for restrictions carefully; however, Providence Medicare Advantage Plans is not required to agree to a requested restriction. Any restriction PHA accepts will be limited to the information under our control.
- Providence Medicare Advantage Plans will try to accommodate all reasonable requests for a restriction, but reserves the right to deny a request if it would be infeasible to implement the restriction.
- Providence Medicare Advantage Plans is not able to accept a request if it is made after the date of service occurred and information has already been released.
- If the request is granted, you will be notified in writing.
- If the request is granted it will be processed within seven (7) days of receipt of the request.
- The request for restriction may be denied and if so, you will be notified in writing of such denial.
- In situations where the member who requested the restriction is in need of emergency treatment, Providence Medicare Advantage Plans may use professional judgment. If the member would benefit from overriding the restriction request due to an emergency, Providence Medicare Advantage Plans will release the minimum necessary PHI to assist the provider in providing emergency treatment.
- A member may revoke this restriction in writing at any time by mailing or faxing the request to Customer Service at the address listed below.
